

Writers' Workshop

Dear Members,

We all want to write better—to express our ideas clearly, cover topics efficiently, and communicate with our audience effectively. But what is the secret to professional writing that truly resonates?

This year, the BCAS Journal Committee invites you to a refreshed Writers' Workshop, designed not just to teach, but to help you practice the art of writing. Moving beyond passive lectures, the workshop offers a hands-on, interactive learning experience focused on real-world application.

Why attend this year?

Two Expert Perspectives

We are joined by CA Raman Jokhakar, who will cover the foundational principles of effective writing, and CA Siddharth Banwat, who brings fresh insights on audience-fit writing and modern formats.

Learning by Doing

Participants will engage in a dedicated “Writing Lab”, drafting real-world scenarios under time limits to build clarity, structure, and confidence.

AI as a Writing Aid

Learn how to responsibly use AI tools for self-evaluation, editing, and refining your drafts—without losing your voice.

Exclusive Group

Participation is capped at 50 attendees to ensure high engagement, meaningful interaction, and individual feedback.

Join us to transform your writing from good to professional.
